Career Shadowing, Mentorship, & Educational Support

Background:

SDYS was awarded a grant by the Office of Statewide Health Planning and Development to introduce individuals to the Public Mental and Behavioral Health field and to provide support to individuals through links with behavioral health knowledge and further career and educational development. Components of the grant include trainings, educational support and reimbursements, increased recruitment efforts, mentoring and career shadowing opportunities.

Objectives:

- Expose the community, SDYS staff and volunteers to various positions within San Diego Youth Services and the public mental/behavioral health field and the skills needed to advance to these positions.
- Engage the target population by providing opportunities to gain experience in the Public Mental/Behavior Health field through placements in volunteer roles or entry positions.
- Promote further engagement of the target population by the provision of mentoring services and career shadowing.
- Better serve service partners by familiarizing staff with internal and external resources (services and staff).
- Provide participants with academic support through reimbursement of educational expenses in pursuit of certification or degree in the Public Mental/Behavioral Health field.

Career Shadowing

Participants are encouraged to shadow one staff member for one to two hours. The staff member will give participant(s) a tour of the site, overview of their program and the specific population that they serve. Staff members will also go into detail about their role within the program, what steps they took/skills they learned that led them to their position, the best parts about their job, and the most challenging parts. Participants will then have a chance to see specific projects underway and ask questions.

Mentorship

All participants are encouraged to participate in mentorship to receive personal, career, or educational support. Through our mentorship program, both mentors and mentees have the opportunity to connect with each other, share experiences, explore ideas, guide and provide support.

Educational Support

Through educational reimbursement support, individuals interested in pursuing a degree or certification within the Public Mental and Behavioral Health field can request reimbursement for study materials, exams, college applications, tuition, certification courses, and more. Individuals are required to participate and engage in multiple activities in order to qualify.
